The Usborne Puzzle Adventure series contains science-themed puzzles written by Clive Gifford. The series pits Dr. Genius and his team against evil superbrains in intricate tales. Meanwhile, a different series featuring softer illustrations targets younger readers with titles like "Lucy and the Sea Monster" and "Chocolate Island". This latter series includes books such as "Dragon in the Cupboard", "Molly's Magic Carpet", and "Halloween Surprise". Some of these books were later reprinted in an omnibus edition called "Young Puzzle Adventures". In 1995, Usborne also released a collection of advanced puzzles titled "The Usborne Book of Superpuzzles" by Sarah Dixon, Mark Fowler, and Radhi Parekh.
